With practical advice for institutions striving to effectively educate students for life in the global age, this handbook encourages institutions to adopt a strategy that integrates programmatic inputs with student learning outcomes. It includes real-world examples and documents that illustrate the strategies offered. Produced with support from the Ford Foundation.

Building a Strategic Framework for Comprehensive Internationalization, 2005
This essay outlines two complementary approaches to internationalization as part of an institutional strategy and illustrates how these approaches can be used together in an integrated manner. Currently being tested on a variety of campuses, this integrated approach combines learner-centered pedagogy and assessment with an evaluation of the institution’s current internationalization efforts. Produced with support from the Ford Foundation.

Case Incidents in Counseling for International Transitions
Edited by Nancy Arthur and Paul B. Pedersen
This book explores the nature of cross-cultural transitions with clients from around the world. Specifically, it focuses on the many opportunities and challenges international workers, students, immigrants, refugees, and military personnel face at transitional stages from initial entry to the host culture to returning home. Among the issues addressed are culture shock, acculturation, dual career transitions, isolation, family experiences, identity confusion, career concerns, immigration obstacles, posttraumatic stress syndrome, and readjustment on returning home.

A Handbook for Counseling International Students in the United States
Edited by Henolia Sengaravala and Mark Pope
Thirty-five experts from around the world address a variety of common international student issues including adapting to an unfamiliar culture and educational system, family experiences, isolation and adjustment, U.S. legal system bureaucracy, career decision and management, sexual orientation, disability, financial obligations, and returning home. Special chapters focus on the unique needs of students from eastern and southern Asia, Latin America, Africa, the Middle East, Europe, New Zealand, and the former USSR nations.

Career Diplomacy: Life and Work in the U.S. Foreign Service
Harry W. Kaye and Charles A. Gillespie
“[A] fascinating and readable book about one of America’s lesser known assets—the diplomatic service. As Ambassador, I recognized how critical these foreign service people are to America’s place in the world. This tells that story”—James R. Jones, former U.S. Ambassador to Mexico and chairman of the World Affairs Councils of America

Working World: Careers in International Education, Exchange, and Development
Sherry L. Mueller and Mark Overmann
“Sound and different advice by two leading professionals. To be read when you are starting to search but especially when you are interviewing, where most impressions are formed and jobs are won. Working World will help make what you say something your interviewer will want to remember”—Allan Goodman, president, Institute of International Education
