

Growing Up Married

Growing Up Married is a documentary which focuses on the stories of child brides recollecting their memories as adults. It explores what happens after child marriage by focusing on the stories of four women, and making their experiences visible, while contributing to debates around this significant, complex and emotionally charged human rights issue which has often been discursively silenced.

About the filmmaker: Dr. Eylem Atakav is Senior Lecturer in Film and Television Studies at the University of East Anglia where she teaches courses on women and film; women, Islam and media; and Middle Eastern media. She is the author of Women and Turkish Cinema: Gender Politics, Cultural Identity and Representation (2012) and editor of Directory of World Cinema: Turkey (Intellect, 2013). Growing Up Married is her first exposure to filmmaking. She is currently co-leading an Arts and Humanities Research Council-funded project entitled British [Muslim] Values.

E-mail: e.atakav@uea.ac.uk Twitter: @eylematakav

Facebook: A Documentary Film on Child Marriages: Growing Up Married

Details:

Year of production: 2016

Director: Eylem Atakav

Producer: Eylem Atakav

Assistant Director: Burcu Dabak

Editors: Lucy Rivers and Roger Hewins

Edit supervisor: Hannah Merridale

Dubbing Mixer: Matt North

Post-production supervisor: Sean Thompson

Production assistant: Umut Yukaruc